Step by step: from the inner town to the surrounding sights

The inner town itself is centered on the Holy Trinity Roman Catholic Parish Church and the square with a beautiful garden next to it.

In the round-arched compartments of the fairly renovated external facade of the more than 250-years-old church, we can see the replicates of the old statues of Saint Peter and Saint Andrew, the originals are safeguarded in the nearby Andrassy Castle. The interior space is decorated by the high altar with angel statues, the two side altars, and the murals painted in the 1960s.

In front of the church, the World War I Monument commemorates the death of the fallen heroes from Béc, Letenye és Egyeduta – the three municipalities later merged as Letenye.

The Szapary-Andrassy Castle – located in a very close proximity, partially renovated and currently operating as a community center – is not only a piece of our architectural and historical heritage, but also worthy for attention because of the beautiful garden with ancient trees surrounding it. The baroque castle, built by the Szapary family sometimes during the 1700s, has been acquired by the Andrassy family by the means of a marriage around 1830, the latter family has reconstructed it by using classicist elements.

The interior space hosts the permanent exhibition Chapters from the history of Letenye, presenting the artefacts discovered by archeological explorations performed in the town and the surrounding area in a chronological order, from the Prehistoric Age, the Roman Age and the Middle Age to the Millennium. We can learn about the local characteristics of the history of the 19th century and the early 20th century thematically, we can gain an insight into the everyday life of the past and the local arts through the selections “Shepherd’s Life – Shepherd’s Art”, “What the Forest Has Given Us” and “The Woodcarving Workshop of Letenye and its Artists”. A room with an interior designed to represent the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries is a spectacular piece of the exhibition, a real travel through time.

The Monumental Column of Lajos Kossuth, one of the most significant characters of the 19th century history of Hungary, and the Library Pavilion, considered as an excellent piece of organic architecture, consisting of twelve angles, built by using only natural materials and finished in 1993, are both located in the garden of the castle.

A walk in the castle park

The castle park itself, with an area of approximately 5.6 hectares, is a fabled place for relaxation where everyone can enjoy spending time under the ancient trees to adore the diverse variety of species and forms, to read a book, to take a light walk, or to perform some kind of sports activity. Genuine rarities can also be found here: huge pedunculate oak trees, yew trees, bignonia trees, and a flora consisting of hundreds of deciduous and evergreen species. We can find the maidenhair tree, the oldest of the living tree species here, and the path of the visitors walking through the garden is decorated by a colorful selection of different shrubs. However, the most famous of these examples of beauty is the approximately 500-years-old giant plane tree at the beginning of the garden.

Living history – the 500-years-old plane tree

After seeing it once, we will no longer doubt why the castle park's plane tree, representing prestige and having the estimated age of 500 years, has been selected as the Tree of the Year of Hungary in 2010. As having a height of almost 20 meters, a trunk of more than 6 meters, and a crown with a diameter of 36 meters, there is nothing to compare the appearance. This tree is a keeper of centuries-old secrets, legends and tales, it catches the eyes from a distance by its amazing sizes and its tangling branches from a fantasy world, and of course it also attracts an army of curious tourists and photographers.

Water-related programmes

The spa and thermal bath of the town is located right next to the garden, therefore this whole green area provides an excellent place for relaxation, attracting visitors with many different opportunities of relaxation, sports and entertainment. Two hot water pools, a swimming pool, a children's pool and a learning pool are waiting for the visitors at the grassy area of three hectares of the spa. The thermal water, coming from the deep and having positive effects, contains magnesium hydrogen carbonate. In addition to the pools, the visitors seeking active relaxation are attracted by a camping site and sports fields.

SEARCHING FOR LOCAL TRADITIONS

The visitors of the traditional house called FÁMA House are welcomed by an atmosphere representing the rural life of the past century in each aspect, hosting the collection of local values of folklore and ethnography, and a part of the heritage of Master of Folk Art Mrs. Sándor Keszesi is also presented here.

In the house, there is an authentic so-called Room of Letenye, where we can see how the traditional costumes of Letenye look like. A kitchen showroom representing the atmosphere of the 1960s is also located here. The barn and the hutches are no longer building supporting the livestock; after a complete renovation, they host the exhibition areas, a dollhouse, and a craftsmen's workshop presenting a collection of old tools. The tools of folk agriculture that are almost unknown by today's people, the tools of storing cereal, the tools of winegrowing and the tools necessary for slaughtering pigs are presented by the shed. The special items and the charming rural atmosphere of the traditional house represent the true self of the town, as we can find the traditions, culture and gastronomy typical of the region here. In each part of the home, we can feel that local people still keep the traditions alive, and respect the experience and knowledge saved from the past.

Wine and gastronomical adventures

Letenye is considered as an exceptional place from the point of view of the wine culture of southwestern Hungary, because a large area of vineyards with hundreds of years of tradition, and a series of the related wine cellars, are located at the edge of the town. Thanks to the climatic and geographical characteristics, and the experienced and dedicated local winegrowers of course, the wine-producing area, considered as a part of the Wine Path of Zala, is the home of high-quality, odorous and light white wines. Welschriesling, Müller-Thurgau, Cserzégi fűszeres and Pinot Gris are the most typical varieties dominating.

The thatched harrow cellar of the vineyard is also a preferred stop of hikers. It was built at the beginning of the 20th century to save values, to preserve the elements discovered at the mounts of Béc and Zajki properly, and to present them to the next generations. The building hosts events of wine tourism on a regular basis, and it is also a significant piece of local folklore architecture.

In this region, walks are generally started by visiting a cellar, and ended by discussions with a truly good and friendly atmosphere. Anyone who has ever tasted the aphrodisiacs of winegrowers, will not be eager to leave for sure. In addition, it is easy to engage in conversations with the hosts, who will not only talk about the secrets of growing wine, but they will also entertain the persons roaming around with local legends and nice tales.

Of course, good wines are accompanied by good tastes in Letenye. The diverse gastronomical offer of the region and the local specialties are available in the restaurants of the town, or during the different events or wine tastings. Who would not be ready to taste dödölle, made from potato and flavored with roasted onions, or krumpliprósza, another meal based on potato? If you are nearby, try the home-made strudel, the maize polenta, and when it comes to meat dishes, the sistergós of Letenye.

What is the difference between krumpliprósza and tócsni, a similar meal prepared in other parts of Hungary?

Generally, we use grated potato, salt, flour, garlics, pepper and eggs if we prepare tócsni, but we only add kefir and curdled milk to grated potato, salt and flour if we prepare krumpliprósza. And which one is the more delicious? It is difficult to tell, because both of them are fantastically delicate if we add sour cream, onions or cheese.
